Olds and Didsbury Play Tie Game

The Olds folks declare the game against Didsbury was the fastest seen this season on the Olds arena.

There was a lot of real hockey exhibited, and at the end of the sixty minutes the game was tied with a score of 3-3. They played two extra five minute periods, but the tie was not broken.

It took the Didsbury boys all of the first period to get used to the rink and during that time Olds slumped in a couple of counters.

Didsbury got down to business in the second period and some sizzling hockey was witnessed. The score was made even when Woodlock and Geiger scored.

In the third frame Didsbury took the lead when Cook scored from Bob Goorder's rebound. Bill Ross however managed to tie the game up for Olds just before time with a shot from a scrumming in front of the goal.

Woodlock was the outstanding player for the Didsbury team and "Electric" Ross put up a great game for the Olds boys.

Olds: Marquand; J. Thompson, W. E. Ross; Bill Ross, Hood, Scott; C. Smith, Seabra and B. Kirkham.
Didsbury: Russell; Hardy, Geiger; Cook, Johnson, Woodlock; Bob Goorder, Huget and Berscht.

Knox United Church was the scene of a sumptuous repast on Thursday, February 4th, when girls from the Junior and Senior C. G. I. T. groups, with their leaders and guests, assembled to partake of food previous to holding their re-affiliation service with the Womens Missionary Society of the Church.

After a few hours spent socially, the service in which all took part, was commenced. Mrs. Makin of Olds, the representative W. M. S. speaker, outlined in her talk the various branches of the work and cited examples of their accomplishments. Appropriate hymns were sung following and Rev. Mitchell gave the closing prayer. A vote of thanks was then accorded the speaker and the singing of C. G. I. T. "Taps" closed the meeting.

Carstairs Man Found Shot

With a bullet wound in the head, the body of George R. Pearson, well-known old-timer of this district, was found in his automobile near here on Monday afternoon. The motor of the car was still running.

Pearson had gone out rabbit shooting, taking a .22 calibre rifle, and when he did not return when expected, his son, Carl, went in search of him. Death is believed to have occurred not long before the body was discovered, when the cause was discovered.

A large number of curlers attended the special curlers service held at the Knox United Church on Sunday evening. Rev. A. J. McNeill's topic, "The Appeal of Curling" was very appropriate for the occasion. The soloist was Mrs. Edwards who sang "In the Garden" very acceptably. The choir rendered the "Magnificat" (Barnett) in a very pleasing manner.

On Tuesday evening, February 2nd Miss Margaret Kercher was pleasantly surprised when about fifty "Y" girls and senior-longhairs met at her home to give her a shower. The first part of the evening was spent in playing various games, after which the bride-to-be had the pleasure of opening and examining a basket of gifts from her friends.

A delicious luncheon was served, and all left, bidding Miss Kercher a long and happy wedded life.

"The Bargain" is a heart-warming domestic drama, the sort that might happen in any of ten million homes. It concerns Maithland and Nancy—white-thrilled grown son Ricky and his girl friend Ronny as well as an amazing maid—an eccentric and resourceful bachelor friend—the enthusiastic boss of a soap factory and some other interesting folks.

Maithland White has for years made a fairly good living at a soap factory that is not well known, but has been hampered in spite of his kindness to her and the boy for the fulfillment of his early ambition to be a painter. The two plan to send Ricky to Paris to study architecture, but at the crucial moment he announces that he means to marry Ronny and take a job in the soap factory. Their objections are of no moment.

Nancy gets the brilliant idea that her husband must take a year away from the soap factory, fix up the home attic as a studio, impress Ezra the maid as model, and paint to his heart's content. Bonspiel Attracts

Twenty-one Rinks

The bonspiel opened to a good start yesterday morning. Two open air rinks have been prepared on the skating rink and early in the morning people stopped to see whether they could hold out. The weather cleared up however, and doubtless they will prove useful as the two inside sheets would not be enough to serve the large number of rinks entered.

There are 21 rinks entered for competition, 11 from the town club, 3 from the country and 7 from the neighboring towns.

Carstairs have 4 rinks headed by L. Liebler, J. Johnson, Hyslop and Sturt.

Olds is represented by C. Saunders, Bonspiel by Marks, and Bowden by Prout.

The country rinks are headed by Jim McDougall, J. Topley, and W. Hardy.

Those entering the town rinks are: Johnson, McCloy, Studer, Julian, Dr. Liesemer, Sinclair, Cook, Edwards-McNaughton.

There are three competitions: distributors, merchants, consolation.

The results in the Distributors competition up to five o'clock on Wednesday evening were as follows:

Hyslop, Carstairs 14,
McCloy, Didsbury 8

Leap Year.

The year 1932 is a leap year. What is a leap year, and why do they occur in practically every fourth year? The origin of leap years goes back to the time before the birth of Christ. Far back in the early years of mankind on this earth, the first division of time devised by man was the day marked out by the alternation of light and darkness, and determined by the rotation of the earth on its axis.

For longer periods, the lunar month, from new moon to new moon an interval of about 29½ days was the standard next fixed upon. Finally, the recurrence of the seasons suggested the year. The duration of the year was determined in various ways by the nations of antiquity, one of the earliest ways being to make it include a certain number of lunar months. Twelve lunar months, giving a year of 354 days, were taken as a near approach to a course of the seasons. In process of time, however, it was discovered that with this rough approximation to the true value of a year, the seasons did not correspond to the same months, and it was necessary, in order to prevent them gradually making the round of the whole year, to make some adjustment.

Originally the Romans had a year of ten months, but early in their history they adopted, from their belief in the luck attendant on odd numbers, a lunar year of 355 days, and added two new months, January and February. To make the necessary adjustment required to fit the preceding paragraph, Jews and Greeks calculated a month from time to time, and at the time Julius Caesar became dictator the spring festivals occurred in the nominally summer months. To clear away all this confusion, Caesar, with the help of Sostratus, an Alexandrian astronomer, undertook a thorough reform of the calendar. He effected it by making the year now called 16 B.C., "the year of confusion," consist of 365 days, and the succeeding year of 365 days, with the exception of every fourth year, which was to consist of 366 days. This method of adjusting the days to the year is called the Julian calendar.

The Julian calendar assumes the length of the solar year to be 365½ days, whereas it is 11 minutes and a few seconds less. This annual error accumulated as the years rolled on. From time to time proposals were advanced to rectify the error, but the matter was not taken up in earnest until 1575, by Pope Gregory XIII. As in 1582 the vernal equinox occurred at a date (March 11), ten days earlier than it did at the time of the Council of Nice in 325 A.D., Pope Gregory published a bull, dated March 1, 1582, amending 10 days, so that what would have been reckoned the 5th October, 1582, was to be reckoned the 15th October.

In order also that the displacement might not recur, it was further ordained that three leap years which occur in 400 years should be considered as common years. The three leap years selected to be reduced to common years were those which close the centuries (i.e., which end with 00) and are not divisible by 400. Thus, 1600 was leap year, 1700, 1800, 1900 were common years, 2000 will be leap year, and so on. This method of adjusting the days to the year is called the Gregorian calendar, or the new style.

This new calendar was adopted that same year by mandate of the Pope in Spain, Portugal, part of Italy, in France, and by Catholic Europe generally before the end of the 16th century. Scotland adopted the modern New Year's Day in 1599. The change was carried out in England in 1752, Russia, Greece, and the smaller states belonging to the Greek Church, are now the only countries which still adhere to the old style. There is now a difference of 13 days between the old style (Julian) and the new style (Gregorian), because to the 10 days originally annulled by Pope Gregory in 1582 there have since been added the elimination of the three extra leap years of 1700, 1800 and 1900.

It is also of interest to note that the same Act which introduced the new reckoning in England in 1752 shortened by nearly three months the year 1751, for it had been the practice to commence the year with March 25, the Feast of the Annunciation, and the year 1751 so commenced, but the year 1752 and all subsequent years began with January 1.

So, the answer to the question is that a leap year, with its additional day in February, has the effect of all the months, is to make up the one-quarter of a day in each year, and about 365 days. But inasmuch as there are actually 11 minutes and 14 seconds more than 365½ days in each solar year, it further becomes necessary to drop three leap years in every 400 years to again make the reckoning straight.

Around the year there have grown up many traditions and customs, the one most commonly recalled being the alleged privilege accorded to women to propose marriage instead of being obliged to wait upon men to offer marriage.

Robert McDonald Of Edmonton Succumbed To Attack Of Pleurisy

Western Canada lost one of its most widely known figures recently when Robert McDonald, sportsman and hotel proprietor of Edmonton since 1901, succumbed to an attack of pleurisy. Mr. McDonald had been ill for two weeks.

Born in Sydney, Cape Breton, Mr. McDonald was 60 years of age. He took keen interest in all forms of sport and is remembered for having promoted some of the largest boxing cards shown here.

He was a director of the Alberta Hotelmen's Association.

Canadian Legion and Pensions

Pensioners Affected Are Those Who Accepted a Final Payment

Following objection of Georges Gonthier, Auditor-General, to a statement by the Board of Pensions Commissioner for Canada of certain classes of pensioners, the Pensions Board consented to the request of the Canadian Legion that a test case be brought before the pensions appeals court.

Numbering 9,318, the pensioners affected are those who accepted a final payment in lieu of pensions under earlier legislation and who, under the amendments to the Pension Act of 1930, have been restored to pension. According to Legion officials several hundred of those restored will be adversely affected! In most cases, payment of pensions has been made and if the appeal fails the pensioners presumably will be required to restore the money to the Dominion Treasury.

In a statement issued recently, Legion officials state they have advocated restoration of final payment cases for some years past and when the provisions of 1930 were passed, "the Legion, and all soldier organizations concerned, believed the matter had been settled finally. The present action of the Auditor-General," the statement continues, "is therefore viewed by the Legion with surprise and concern."

The appeal, the statement says, is taken to eliminate the possibility of hardship resulting from delay. The Legion will conduct the appeal, and hopes to have the case argued before the end of the year.

Ontario Plans Loan

Alberta Will Watch Outcome With Great Interest

Commenting upon the steps taken to control Canadian purchases of foreign securities, Hon. George S. Henry, Prime Minister of Ontario, recently disclosed that the next loan sought by the province of Ontario will be in the form of a domestic bond issue.

Alberta will watch with interest Ontario's effort to secure that province's next loan in the form of a domestic bond issue. Premier John E. Brownlie said, "I am very hopeful that it will be a success, of course."

The Weather He Likes
A traveller was crossing the moorland, and met an old shepherd. "What sort of weather shall we have today?" he asked the shepherd. "Whatever weather you like," was the reply. "Whatever weather you like?" said the astonished traveller. "Why, how can that be? How can you control the weather?" "Well," said the shepherd, "because it will be what God pleases, and what He please I like."

Dog Makes Long Trip Afoot

From Dauphin, Manitoba, "Smut" Goes Back To Old Home, Regina

On the trail of his lost master, "Smut" arrived in Regina recently, after travelling between 300 to 400 miles afoot.

Mr. A. R. Turts, 1940 York Street, where Mr. Quick boarded during his stay in Regina, was splitting some wood in the shed at the back of his house when a black dog shot through the doorway, jumped on him and licked his face. "Smut" was among friends again, but his master was not there.

What route he had travelled, how many miles he had covered, how he had fed en route and how many farm dogs he had fought "Smut" could not tell, but he was able to express his joy and pleasure at being "just among friends" in a canine way.

Leading Wall Street Bankers Will Give Public All Facts About Short-Time Credits

Leading Wall Street banks have decided upon the step of placing before their stockholders and the public all facts concerning their short-term credits to Germany.

This will be done at forthcoming annual stockholders' meetings. The decision was prompted by reports reaching financiers of disturbing rumors and exaggerations which they deemed important to refute with reassuring information.

It was asserted their figures will show that substantially less than eight per cent. of the total business done by these having extensive international operations is for German account. Actually over 99 per cent. of their gross business is of domestic origin.

Nuisance Tax Unlikely

Saskatchewan Not Considering Imposing Taxes On Cigarettes, Tobacco Or Soft Drinks

It is considered unlikely that the Alberta Government, seeking new sources of revenue at the coming session of the legislature, will attempt to impose any "nuisance" taxes such as on cigarettes, tobacco and soft drinks.

Although such imposts were discussed at the caucus, they aroused strong opposition among government members, with the result that the government has practically eliminated "nuisance" taxes from their proposed to swell the provincial treasury next year.

On the other hand, an amusement tax imposed by the province next year, is still within the realm of possibility. Questions regarding this matter, Hon. M. A. MacPherson, described the amusement tax as "provincial if the province wants to take it."

Only Regina and Saskatoon, in this province, exercises an amusement tax, a source of revenue these cities would lose if the province took over the tax.

Ottawa Physician Has One Of The Strangest And Far-Flung Medical Practices In The World

Dr. F. S. Parley, of Ottawa, has one of the widest-flung and strangest medical practices in the world. He never sees his patients. A medical man and a typewritten list of drugs forms his only kit. His patients never receive bills. All his diagnosis and treatment is done by wire less.

Seated behind a desk in an ordinary business office, Dr. Parley cares for his patients, scattered through the far north. The field extending thousands of miles, from Akchivik on the west to Cape Chidley on the east, is limited only by wire less.

Dotted throughout the north at government meteorological and radio stations, Royal Canadian Mounted Police depots, for trading posts and mining camps, small groups of men and women are isolated from civilization.

When sickness adds to their loneliness, Dr. Parley administers to them. Symptoms are radioed to him at Ottawa. A diagnosis is made and within a few minutes a schedule of treatments has been flashed back.

A medical manual, a first aid kit and a cabinet of staple drugs and standard equipment is at every government post in the north. Dr. Parley, an official of the Department of Health, has on his desk a manual identical with those in the north. When he has diagnosed a case, he radios back to him such-and-such a page and follow its directions. When special treatment is required, the men in the north are told to use a certain quantity of drug after 37 on the last page many times a day.

The medical manual is printed in simple everyday language. It was written for the layman and tells him how to examine a patient, what symptoms should be flushed back to Ottawa, how to follow a schedule of treatments and how to use simple medical instruments and appliances. Thermometers, bandages, splints, rubber gloves and antiseptics are in the medical cabinet. Seventy-two drugs are carried, each with a separate number.

Dr. Parley's medical practice runs from frost bites and impacted wisdom teeth to consumption and the obstetrical care of Eskimo women. Minor operations have been performed under his distant control.

Imagination and versatility form the basis of the system. Dr. Parley must use imagination to diagnose and treat a patient, many hundreds of miles away. At the same time, both the doctor and the men in the north must exhibit versatility. Acetic acid was needed for a chemical test necessary in a diagnosis, but none was available at the northern post. "Use white vinegar," telephoned Ottawa. It was necessary to locate minutely a chest disturbance for diagnostic purposes. The government men were told to divide figuratively the patient's chest with a St. George's cross. The disturbance, Dr. Parley soon learned, was in the northern half of the southwest quadrant.

The radio branch of the marine department has held a circuit open all day to permit an Eskimo woman to receive medical attention from Ottawa. Dozens of messages were exchanged. The woman finally recovered from a severe illness. In the government records, the case is listed simply, "Maggie, wife of Tommy, Resolution Island."

You will see, Robert, in a few years we shall only need half an hour to go to London by air."

"Yes, but it will still take you two hours to get ready." — Journal Amusant, Paris.

Pioneer Railroader Dies

HE L. Rosevear, Dies At Age Of 91, Came To Canada In 1851

The death of W. H. L. Rosevear, Montreal, removed one of Canada's pioneer railroad men.

Born in September, 1857, at Wadebridge, Cornwall, England, Mr. Rosevear early heard the call of Canada, coming to this country in 1854. He immediately entered the service of the Great Western railroad at Hamilton. He was transferred to Montreal in 1857.

In 1893 he became general car accountant at Montreal for the Grand Trunk Railway, remaining in the service of the Grand Trunk until his retirement in 1907, when he went on pension, after 33 years service.

Active in the work of the Methodist church, Mr. Rosevear remained high in its councils until about 10 years ago. He was a local preacher and a member of the Methodist conference.

Boasting his full share of civic responsibility, he was for three or four years mayor of St. Lambert, a suburb of Montreal.

He is survived by four sons. They are W. H. Rosevear, J. J. Rosevear, and J. M. Rosevear, joint controller of the C.N.R. all of Montreal, and A. E. Rosevear, Winnipeg.

Regina Minister Opposes Sweepstakes

The Subject Is To Be Discussed By The Ministerial Association

On the grounds that it is "demoralizing," Rev. W. E. MacNiven, a clergyman of Regina, Saskatchewan, will attack the plan of the Regina Exhibition Association to conduct a sweepstake. The association, plans to boost its attendance receipts next summer by giving away $100,000 in cash prizes, in a series of monthly "weather estimate" contests. Tickets would cost $1 each.

"I question the legality of the scheme," states Mr. MacNiven, "but that is for legal minds to decide." The subject will shortly be discussed by the executive of the ministerial association.

Butter Export

Saskatchewan's record creamery butter production for 1931, which is expected to aggregate 20,000,000 pounds by the end of the year, has made possible extensive sales outside the province, according to officials of the Dairy Branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. Estimates place the amount already sold, this year, outside the province, at 12,000,000 pounds, a considerable portion of which found its way to the British market.

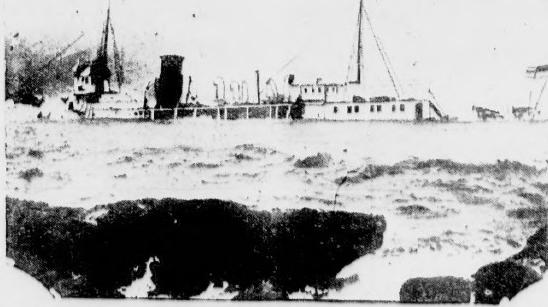

It is estimated (evening party). What are you going already, professor? And must you take your dear wife with you?

Professor: Indeed. I'm sorry to say I must.

Webb: They say you married Penelope because her aunt left her a fortune.

BRITISH ARMED MERCHANTMAN SINKS OFF CHINESE COAST

This photograph shows the wrecking of the armed British merchantman H.M.S. Petersfield, which ran on the rocks at Tung Yung Island while en route from Hongkong to Foochow, China, was on board when the Petersfield grounded. All officers and men were rescued by other vessels of the fleet, and the old "Petersfield," which for years has patrolled Chinese waters keeping the peace, has been written off the British Admiralty list as a total loss.

Mussolini Desires Peace With the Vatican

Gastao Polverelli Appointed To Be Chief of the Press

Premier Mussolini made what was interpreted as another step in the direction of peace with the Vatican recently in announcing the appointment of Deputy Gastao Polverelli as chief of the press.

Deputy Polverelli was the first Fascist to see Cardinal Gasparri, former papal nuncio of state after Mussolini's regime came into power. His visit was unofficial but he sought to learn the Vatican's attitude and to lay a foundation for good relations.

Signor Ferretti, previous chief of the press, who served three years and was very close to H. H. Wise, was cordially thanked by the Premier for his work.

Yachtmen Would Like "Bluenose"

Little Chance Of American Buying Famous Salt-Banker

United States yachtmen would like to purchase "Bluenose," famous salt-banker that defended her title as queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleet this fall by humbling the American challenger, "Gertude L. These."

E. Fenwick Zwicker, managing director of the stock company that owns the schooner, said recently they would be held before the directors an early date, but he said he believed there was little chance of the "Bluenose" going out of Nova Scotia.

Aid For the Starter

When starting a cold engine, it always disengages the clutch as this releases part of the battery. When the clutch is engaged, the starter has to turn some of the transmission gears as well as the engine crank shaft assembly.

Western Economist Suggests Canada Abandon Gold Standard In Conformity With Britain

Ways Of Disease Germs

Scientists Discover That Bacteria Is Attacked By Fleas

Disease germs, like dogs, have many fleas whose bites sometimes turn the bacteria into raging destroyers and sometimes drug them into harmlessness.

Discovery of a certain profound effect of these bacterial foes was reported to the Society of American Bacteriologists by Dr. F. D'Herelle of the School of Medicine of Yale University.

The bacterial pests do not merely drive disease germs berserk, but somehow alter heredity, so that a different species of bacteria develops. The new species may be either more dangerous or less so by their parents.

D'Herelle's discovery suggests the possibility of controlling bacteria by breeding, provided it can be ascertained what kind of flea bites will rob disease germs of their virulence.

The proper scientific name of the fleas is "phage," which means eaters.

Doctor Jailed At New York

Fined $500 and Sentenced To Six Months Imprisonment

Dr. Beverly Speigel, Lake Placid physician and Montreal hotelman, was fined $500 and sentenced to six months in the federal house of detention on his plea of guilty to possession, transportation and sale of liquor.

He also received a suspended sentence of two years, operative at any time within five years upon violation of the prohibition law or departure from general good behaviour.

Mense Caused Accident

A mouse has been the cause of a serious motor accident in France.

It made its nest in a car, and soon afterwards the owner, his wife, and the mouse went for a drive. Suddenly the man noticed the mouse and made a grab at it. In doing so he lost control of the car, which ran into a tree, causing serious injuries to the two occupants.

What Is the Time?

A young boy asked an elderly gentleman the time.

"In three-quarters of an hour it will be half past as many minutes to twelve as it now is after ten," he said.

The small boy was a bright youngster and quickly told the time.

What was it? Answer: 10:50 o'clock.

British Jolts Figures

Great Britain registered a decrease of $4,725 in the number of unemployed during the week ended December 12. On that date the total was 2,572,662, which was 252,010 more than at the same time a year ago.

The only state that has a law against a private citizen having a machine gun is California?

Acceptance by Canada of the need of giving full value to the currency of Great Britain, is suggested by Dr. W. W. Swanson, professor of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, as a possible means of contributing toward alleviation of prevailing monetary conditions. This, he says, could be signified "by our abandoning the gold standard for a time, and defining the Canadian dollar as such and such a part of the pound sterling."

Dr. Swanson makes the suggestion in his book, "Depression—And the Way Out." A pre-production review was recently carried by the Toronto Mail and Empire.

Belief of the economist in the gold standard is based on his opinion that it is the only method found so far of ensuring the full sanctity of contracts—that faith in the honesty of the other man which he holds to be the very foundation of civilized society.

Upon the question of Canadian exchange in New York, and the development of Canadian trade with Great Britain, and the "natural affinity" of Canada with Britain as the Dominion's wheat consumer, Dr. Swanson, in part, comments:

"It is impossible to say definitely why the Canadian dollar should have followed the pound sterling to lower levels of value in New York, but it is fairly certain that it must have done so sooner or later. Not a little of the fall experienced is probably due to mere belief that, as a British nation, it must share the fortunes of Britain. In any event there is a powerful force tending to pull our dollar to parity with the pound sterling rather than with the American dollar—our position as a wheat-growing country.

"Our chief item of export business is the selling of wheat to Great Britain. We cannot accept full payment in goods, although we are engaged in a deliberate and planned attempt to increase the British proportion of our imports. We cannot pay in gold, but we would mean that the price of our wheat would be set in line, in Liverpool, with the price of wheat competing countries such as Australia and Argentina, which already have depreciated currencies. We must, in the end, find some means of accepting payment in the sole medium which Britain can use—the pound, even if a pound of lessened value."

Pioneer Of Printing

A record price was recently paid for a Gutenberg Bible, one of the few surviving copies of the Bible printed on the press of Johannes Gutenberg of Mainz, Germany. Johannes Gutenberg was one of the first printers, and he is usually regarded as the inventor of movable type. He set up his first printing press at Mainz about the year 1450. His first published work was a book printed from blocks, and later he printed his great Bible, a copy of which has just changed hands at the price of $150,000. Gutenberg died at Mainz in the year 1468, and he was buried, so tradition says, in the Franciscan church of that city.

Maid: "Isn't he? And so are all the others." — Meggendorfer Blätter, Munich.

Canada Carries On.

It is possibly an exaggeration to say that Canada is in a relatively better position than any other nation today, but surely she will be in the forefront of any general return to prosperity. Canada is young, and youth is always confident of the future. She handles her opportunities, and they have the right to be such. This country is fortunate in having such a vigorous and hopeful neighbor, and when the resources and potentialities of the United States are considered, the essential character of the people and their opportunities in the great territory to the north should never be overlooked.

Like the rest of the world, Canada has its troubles. The railroads are proving a serious problem there as here. Farm products and newsprint have suffered. The country has large foreign obligations, and her dollar depreciated when Great Britain was impelled to suspend the gold standard. But the Dominion has had marvelous success of late in floating a large national-service loan, the proceeds of which are needed for unemployment distress, as well as for ordinary services. These funds were largely supplied by the public to a gratifying extent, particularly in Western Canada, despite two years of low-priced crops. The success of the loan is considered a national declaration of faith in the future and evidence of the ability of the country to finance itself.

The Canadian banking system has proved sound thus far, and there is real evidence of inherent strength in face of world-wide depression. One striking fact is that the tide of Canadian migration to the United States appears to have stopped. Indeed, there seems to be a very substantial movement of Americans into Canada, more than 10,000 having migrated there in 1931.

These movements may reflect temporary economic conditions rather than permanent trends. But the population of Canada is small in proportion to the extent of the land and its resources, so that a healthy growth in population should be of almost as great advantage to us as to Canada itself.

Leap Year Facts.

Facts in the history of thrifty Scotland. National characteristics persist for several centuries. It's likely that 1288 was the year of a great migration of single men, because this was the law then enacted:

"It is enacted and ordained that during the reign of our most illustrious Magister, for all years known as leap-years, ilk man and lade of both highane and lowe estait shall ha' libertie to bespeke ye man shal likes, he refuseth to tak bir to be his laistly wif, he shall be mulected in ye sum a pundis or less, as his estait may be; except and awisif he can make it appear that he is beithout anither woman he then shall be free."

Great sympathy is felt for the Haynes family who were burnt out on February 2nd at their homestead at Winfield, Alberta. They left this district in November to put in the winter waters on their homestead at that point. The family suffered severely, the occasion being they were obliged to drive two miles in the early morning to the home of Mr. Walsh, all being barefooted and bareheaded. Mrs. Haynes had both feet frozen, while two of the family suffered from frozen hands.

Literary Notes.

By the editor of the D.I.S.S. "Meteor"

As my predecessor vigorously avowed that brevity is the soul of wit, I must be brief at all costs and abide by her teachings.

The primary room of the Public School was the scene of unusual activity on Friday, January 20th, when the very learned High School youths and maidens, with their tutors, assembled there to commune with Minerva, the goddess of wisdom, and Bacchus, the god of pleasure, and indeed the trying-place was well chosen, for, throughout the hour allotted to this rendezvous with the spirits, the atmosphere was heavy with ponderous sighs and the oh's! and ah's! of concentrating students, but as the business period drew to a close, and the program took a brighter turn, the oh's! and ah's! changed quite definitely to hee's! and haw's!

The editor read the January edition of the "Meteor," which was followed by a piano forte solo from Ruby Traub. And then came the great event of the afternoon, a brief skit entitled "Melodrama." Bacchus was the element, Minerva the goddess of wisdom, depicted silently, turning only once to peer back, and on her face was a look of hurt surprise, as of one who gazes for the last time on a dead follower who has rebelled.

Hilarity reigned supreme, and I am afraid it was a rather gay crowd that rose at 4:10 to sing "God Save the King."

CHAPTER X.

Other People's Troubles

Jean woke to find the chill, wintry sunlight thrusting in long fingers through the space between the curtains and the edges of the window-blinds. At first the unfamiliar look of a strange bedroom puzzled her, and she lay blinking drowsily at the wakening slits of light, wondering in vague half-aware fashion where she was. Gradually however her recollection returned to her, and with it a lively curiosity to view Staple by daylight. She jumped out of bed and, rattling up the blinds on their rollers, peered out of the window.

There was a hard frost abroad, and the stillness, which reigned over the ice-bound countryside, reminded her of the big Alpine scenes. But here there was no snow, no dazzling sheet of whiteness spread, with cold, grey-blue shadows flung across it. Green and brown the lawns sloped gently down from a flagged terrace, running immediately beneath her window to the very rim of the frozen lake that gleamed in the valley below. Beyond the valley, scattered woods and copses climbed the hillsides opposite, leafless and bare save where a cluster of tall pines towered in evergreen defiance against the slate of the sky.

In the farther distance, beyond the confines of the manor park itself Jean could catch glimpses of cultivated fields - the red Devon soil glowing jewel-like through filmy wisps of morning mist that still hung in the atmosphere, dispersing slowly as though loth to go. Here and there a little spiral of denser, blue-grey smoke wreathed its way upwards from the chimney of some thatched cottage or farmhouse. And lack of it all, culminated in a dim, mysterious purple, the great tors of Dartmoor rose sentinel upon the horizon.

Jean's glance narrowed down to the sleeping sward in front of the house. It was all just as her father pictured it to her. On the left, a giant cedar broke the velvet smoothness of mown grass; its gnarled arms rimmed with hoar-frost, whilst to the right a tall

25 lbs. OF FAT GONE

Rheumatism Went With It

A thousand benefit came to this woman when she lost twenty-five pounds of dead weight. I know, I always trouble with rheumatism. My joints were getting so swollen it was misery to walk. I was then 155 lbs., while my doctor said I should weigh 50 lbs. in height. I thought I would try Kneadex, although I did not then know it would help me right off. But I thought it would help ease the pain. I took half-teaspoonful in a tumbler of hot water each morning, and to my great delight this started to ease the pain. This week I was weighed and was 130 lbs., which I think is good positive. My friends and all insist I look much younger now. I feel good, and feel a lot better in health." — Mrs. M. H.

"I always had Kneadex to assist the intestinal organs to throw off each day the waste and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that helped get rid of the rheumatism. The pains of rheumatism and neuritis ease. You feel wonderfully healthy, sound and energetic more so than before in your life."

new hedge, clipped into huge grotesque emblems of birds and beasts, divided the lawn from a path which skirted a wall of rose-garden. By craning his neck and almost flattening her nose against the window-pane, she could just make out a sunken lawn in the rose-garden, and in its centre the slender pillar of an ancient sundial.

It was all very English and old-fashioned, breathing the inimitable charm of places that had been well loved and tended by successive generations. And over all, hills and valleys, park and woodland, lay that faint, almost imperceptible hum of life wherever, be it in searching summer sunshine or iron frost, the West Country tenderly contrives to soften every harsh outline into something gracious, and melting, and alluring.

To Jean, familiarized from childhood with the piercing clarity of atmosphere, the brilliant colouring and the definiteness of silhouette of southern Europe and of Egypt, there was something inexpressibly restful and appealing in those blurred hues of grey and violet, in the warm red of the Devon earth, with its tender over-tones, like the bloom on a girl, and the rounded breasts of green-hills curving saucily out into the edges till they merged into the ultimate, rock-crowned slopes of the braying moors.

"I'm going to love your England," said Nick.

They were making their way down to the lake - alone together, since Blaise had curtailed his visit to join them - and as she spoke, Nick stopped and regarded her consideringly.

"I rather imagine England will love you," he replied, adding with the whimsical impudence which was always permitted Nick Brennan: "If it were not for a prior claim, I'm certain I should have loved you in about five minutes."

"I'm sorry I happened too late," retorted Jean.

"But I can still be a brother to you," he pursued, ignoring her interposition. "I think" - reflectively - "I shall like being a brother to you."

"I should expect a brother to come and carry," cautioned Jean. "And to himself generally!"

"I haven't got the character from my last place about me at the moment, but I'll write it out for you when we get back. Meanwhile, I will perform the menial task of fastening on your skates."

They had reached the lake by now. It was a wide stretch of water - several acres in extent - and rimmed about its banks with rush and alder. At the far end Jean could discern a boat-house.

"It must be an ideal place for boating in the summer," she said, taking in the size of the lake appreciatively as together they circled it with long sweeping strokes, hands interlocked. It was much larger than it had appeared, from her bedroom window, when it had been partially screened from her view by rising ground.

"It's all right just for paddling about," answered Nick. "But there's really jolly boating on our river. That's over on the west side of the park" - he pointed in the direction indicated. "It divides Staple from Willow Ferry - the property of our next-door neighbours, so to speak. I hope the boating here," he added, "though I'm afraid our skating possibilities aren't likely to impress anyone coming straight from Switzerland."

"I'm sure I shall like skating - or anything else here," said Jean warmly. "It is all so beautiful. I suppose Devonshire is really quite the loveliest county in England?" My father always declared it was."

"We think so," replied Nick modestly. "Though a Cornishman would probably want to knock me down for saying so! But I love it," he went on. "There's nowhere else I would care to live." His eyes softened, seeming almost to express the surrounding fields and woods.

Jean nodded.

"I can understand that," she said. "Although I've only been here a few hours, I'm beginning to love it, too. I don't know why it is - I can't explain it - but I feel as if I'd 'come home'."

"So you have. The Petersons lived here for generations."

"Do you mean?" Jean stared at him in astonishment. "do you mean that they lived at Coombe Eavie?"

"Yes. Didn't you know? They used to own Chumwood - a place about a mile from here. It was sold after your grandfather's death. Did your father never tell you?"

She shook her head.

"He always enjoyed speaking of anything to do with his life over here. I think he hated England. Is there anyone living at Chumwood now?" she asked, after a pause.

"Yes. It has changed hands several times, and now a friend of ours lives there - Lady Latimer."

"Then perhaps I shall be able to go there some day. I should like to see the place where my father's people lived!" - eagerly.

Nick laughed.

"You've got the true Devonshire homing instinct," he declared. "Devon folk who've left the country always want to see the place where their people lived!" I remember, about a year ago, a Canadian girl and her brother turned up at Staple. They were descendants of a Tormarin who had emigrated two or three generations before, and they had come across to England for a visit. Their first trip was to Devonshire; they wanted to see "the place where Dad's people had lived." And, by Jove, they knew a lot more about it than we did! They were posted up in every detail, and insisted on a personally conducted tour over the whole place. They went back to Canada rejoicing, loaded with photographs of Staple."

Jean smiled.

"I think it was rather dear of them to come back like that," she said simply.

They swung round the head of the lake and, as they turned, Jean caught sight of a woman's figure emerging from the path which ran through the woods. Apparently the new-comer descended the skaters at the same moment, for she stopped and waved her hand in a friendly little gesture of greeting. Nick lit his cap.

"That is Lady Latimer," he said.

Something in his voice, some indescribable deepening of tone, made Jean look at him quickly. She remembered on one occasion in Thomas' shop, noticing a very beautiful opal lying in its case; she had commented on it casually, and the man behind the counter had lifted it from its satin bed and turned it so that the light should fall full upon it.

In an instant the red fire slumbering in its heat had wakened into glowing life, irradiating the whole stone with pulsing colour. It was some such vitalizing change as this that she sensed in the suddenly eager face beside her.

Sister Cities More Lenient

Regina Has the Lowest Speed Limit In Western Canada

Regina has the lowest speed limit of six leading western Canadian cities, according to information obtained by the Board of Trade.

But the police commission decided against changing the speed limit to greater than 15 miles an hour.

In most other cities the limit is 20 miles an hour.

There is a 20-mile limit at Saskatoon, with greater leniency in outlying sections.

At Moose Jaw the limit is 25 miles with the exception of some restricted areas where 20 miles is the limit.

There is no speed limit at Winnipeg and none at Edmonton. Drivers must use caution. The Vancouver by-law amounts to about the same thing and Calgary has no definite limit.

In a large number of Ontario cities the limit is 20 miles an hour.

Prairie Has This Asthma Remedy. A great deal of use of Dr. J. C. Kellogg's asthma remedy, which it is claimed is a remedy that will give relief, though for thirteen years he had sought other help. Years of needless suffering may be prevented by using this wonderful remedy. It is a safe, simple form of trouble. Its use is simple, its cost is slight, and it can be purchased almost anywhere.

Medical Fakers Are Sentenced. Two men sentenced to five years imprisonment each in New Westminster, B.C., have been identified as the international swindlers who posed as eye specialists and obtained hundreds of dollars from Middlesex county farmers to treat眼疾. The men are Wallace Wallace Anderson and James Henry Howard.

The Canadian output during the first ten months of the current year was recorded at 2,201,286 ounces of 26.7 per cent. above the total for the same period in 1930.

Pensions Are Nice Presents

About 200 Canadians who veterans who in 1930 qualified their pensions up to 10 per cent, receiving grants up to $666, have by new regulations obtained free medical examination and in some cases drafts representing outlays from date of commutation, which in some instances total $1,500. To some men this is a godsend as they were in dire straits.

Cuts and Bruises Disappear. - When suffering from cuts, scratches, bruises, sprains, sore throat or chest and similar afflictions, apply a few drops of Electric Oil. Its healing power is well-known in every section of the community. A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil should be in every medicine chest ready for the emergencies that may always be anticipated.

Hibiscus Has Late Summer Bloom. - It's supposed to be winter in the midwest but trees and plants are issuing tiny blooms and folks are walking around in their shirt sleeves. Yesterday there was a summer-like electrical storm, and the weather man wouldn't be surprised if he received a heat prostration report at any time now.

Little Helps For This Week

"Hereby know we that we dwell in Him, and He in us, because He hath given us of His Spirit." - John iv. 13. Alone with Thee, my God! alone with Thee myself. Thus wouldst Thou have it still, thus let it be;

There is a secret chamber in each mind. Which none can find. But He who made it: none beside can know.

Its joy or woes, Or may I err, oppressed by care, and find Thee there; So full of watchful love, Thou knowest the why.

Of every sigh, Then all Thy righteous dealings shall Alone with Thee, my God! alone with Thee!

— Littell's Living Age.

Only in the sacredness of inward silence does the soul truly meet the secret-keeping God. The strength of resolve, which afterwards shapes life and mixes itself with action, is the fruit of those sacred, solitary moments when we meet God alone.

Despite a cold and none too promising night, a large turnout gathered at the schoolhouse last Friday. The town and other districts were well represented, to say nothing of our own community. Numerous decks of cards were on hand and everyone indulged. We also noticed a game of "muley" going on. At 11 o'clock, lunch was served, with 90 cent coffee to wash it down. Local talent furnished the music to complete the night with a dance. In the morning the crowd broke up, well satisfied with their night.

Oxford and Cambridge Skiers Hold First Meeting on British Soil.

History was written in Canadian and Empire ski annals at Ste. Marguerite, Que., over the end of 1931 and the beginning of 1932, when the skiers of the University of Oxford and Cambridge held their Inter-Varsity meet on British soil for the first time. The two great English universities have always settled their winter sports differences in Switzerland, the recent visit to Canada having been the first time in the "Big British" campaign, and for the encouragement of University sports between different parts of the Empire. They also met

Canadian college teams, were entertained at Ottawa by His Excellency the Governor-General, and made the acquaintance of a number of Canadian celebrities. The pictures show (Dark Sweaters) the Oxford Team; (Light Sweaters) Cambridge, who won the British team trophy. The pictures were taken immediately after the Oxford-Cambridge cross country race. Left to Right: Alexander Keller, Cambridge; Captain Chas. G. C. G. Smith, Cambridge; Honorary Manager of the teams, timekeeper, W. (Bill) Thompson, Montreal, former Canadian Olympic Skier, starter, F. J. Walter, (Oxford) individual winner; W. D. Dunn, Cambridge, second; and H. Spence, former British cross country ski champion and member of the Canadian committee of the Ski Club of Great Britain, timekeeper. Inset—a jump by three of the British under-18 team members. Stories will be told about their visit to Canada and the beautiful mountain resort on the Laurentian line of the Canadian Railways. The party travelled from England in the Canadian Pacific line "Montcalm" and returned on the "Duchess of York."
